

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A negative electrode for lithium secondary battery characterized in that the electrode is obtained by sintering a mixture of an active material alloy and a binder disposed on a current collector, or a mixture of an active material alloy, conductive metal powder and a binder disposed on a current collector, and the active material alloy after sintered is substantially amorphous.

5